FOR SALE

50 S. C. White Leghorn cockerels, Tom Barren strain, $1.00 each if taken soon.

Mrs. J. P. Beacom, Hubbard, Neb.

Winter Flower Gardens

Those empty, useless-looking window and porch boxes may be made to serve a useful purpose in adding to the beauty of the home in winter. The dried up plants that occupied such a prominent place during the summer may be replaced at this season of the year by a collection of twigs and branches and even small trees that will provide a pleasing effect throughout the winter. In the background may be grouped small trees or branches of evergreens such as pines, red cedar, spruce, and arbor vitae and in the foreground shoots with bright colored berries, such as bittersweet, barberry, coraiberry, jar in attendance up to this time, the striking effect produced by these materials a few fruiting spikes of sumac may be used.

First loosen the soil in the box with a trowel or old knife; then plant the twigs three or four inches deep and pack the dirt about the stems so that the winter winds will not blow them over. Then add a liberal supply of water.

For Sale

Four immune pure-bred Duroc Jersey spring boars, $25.00 each. S. A. Heikes, Dakota City, Neb.

Certified Grimm Alfalfa Seed

The Nebraska Crop Growers association has begun work on certifying Grimm alfalfa seed. This is done by tracing the history of the seed, investigating the growth habits of the plants, color of blossoms, and other characteristics. A limited amount of Grimm seed has been certified for this year. The names of men having this seed can be secured by writing the secretary of the association who is located at the College of Agriculture, Lincoln.

The Grimm alfalfa is a hardy strain which seems to be more winter hardy than the common alfalfa, although the yield of hay is ordinarily no greater than the common alfalfa.

DAKOTA CITY SCHOOL NOTES

By Prof. H. M. Eaton

The Master said, "Suffer the little children to be brought unto me, for of such is the Kingdom."

Not a visitor to the school all last week. I wonder what is the matter with the school interest in Dakota City. If one had a pen of hogs fattening out seven miles in the country he would go out to see how the hogs were getting along at least once a month. Where your heart is "there will you be."

The high school is again the banner room in the point of attendance for the month. High school 99%, grammar room 96%, second intermediate room 96%, intermediate room 96%, primary room 96%. I wonder if it is not possible to have a perfect attendance score. We are asking the support of all the parents toward this end.

The high school gave a very pretty operetta at the high school last Wednesday evening. The work was indeed well done. We congratulate the young folks and their teacher, Mrs. Asper.

We received six new pupils in school this morning. Anna Nagel to the fifth grade, Ira Ball to the fifth grade, John and Robert Nagle to the third grade, Anna Tilley to the fifth grade and Earl Ball to the second grade.

Dakota City has all the pupils taken in the last census of school age, in school at this time. We are very thankful that all are helping to give the boys and girls their birth-rights.

Names of those pupils who have been neither tardy nor absent for the month ending November 25th—

Intermediate room—Dorothy Leamer, Florence Frederick, Walter Sierk, May Messerly, Candace Young, Margaret Giese, Alice Tague, George Foltz, Ruth Graham, Blanche Holbrook, Dorothy Fueston, Louise Lowe, Louise Neiswanger, Leona Todd, Edward Francis, Joe Jones, Gretchen Forrest, Lavonne Cain.

Second intermediate room—Martha Barge, Alfred Forbes, Harry Foltz, Clair Orr, Roy Perry, Vera Smith, Marie Sundt, Leonard Sierk, Gladys Sierk, David Warner, Helen Foltz, Ethel Foltz, Edgar Frederick, Glenn Waddell.

Grammar room—Vira Sundt, Walter Graham, Ida Hansen, Eldo Betcke, Lorraine Biermann, Horace Graham, John Orr, Laurence Lean, Mabel Sundt, Marie Hansen.

High school—Joe Betcke, Elsie Krumwiede, Hallack Mason, Everett Blessing, Donald Ebel, Mildred Frederick, Edwin Morgan, Ernest Giese, Mildred Ream, Nellie Triggs, Alfred Biermann, Warren Heikes, Ted Graham, Eunice Larson, Porter Sides, Ruth Orr, Warren Armour, Erwin Bliven, Ralph Bliven, Charles Blacketer, Gladys Frederick, Harry Larson, Maurice Niemeyer, Ernest Sierk, Helen Smith.

Large Profit from Small Vineyard

Mr. Lake Bridenthal of near Wynmore, Neb., a breeder of Durocs and Percherons, is the owner of a three-quarter-acre vineyard of which he is justly proud and of which he recently gave an account to the horticulture specialists of the Agriculture College. Six years ago the plants were set out, 450 of them and mostly Concord. This year the grapes from the vines sold for $360, representing 90 bushels at $4.00 per bushel. The average yield per vine was eight pounds, which is high considering that the first fruiting shoots were frozen back last spring. The results show what the possibilities are when the vines are given good care and the proper type of pruning.

"Grapes are fairly easy to grow," said Mr. Bridenthal. "The area between the rows is disced two or three times during the early summer. After August first, the cultivating is stopped and frost allowed to grow. This helps to ripen the wood for winter. The important thing in raising grapes, however, is the pruning. But with a little study and some practice one soon learns how much fruiting wood to leave and how to keep the old wood from accumulating. The marketing problem is not difficult with me. People are anxious to come right to the farm to get the grapes and are willing to pay a good price. This year it was impossible to supply the demand."
